About the workshop

Continuing pressure on the public sector, globally, to deliver more for less cost underlines the urgency for management to account for their decisions in using taxpayers' money. Clearly defined and measurable performance objectives, complemented by robust internal monitoring and control, are key to demonstrating economic efficiency and effective delivery against those objectives.

Politicians and senior managers need assurance that systems and processes are in place to allow them to demonstrate this "value for money". Internal audit and risk management can offer such assurance and strengthen management decisions. This workshop will show you how internal audit and risk management can add value to these systems and processes and support the achievement of organisational objectives. It sets out current good practice in both these areas and gives an excellent opportunity for you to visit a selection of public sector bodies to talk to practitioners. Case studies offer practical examples and insights during the week.

Who is it for?

The workshop is for:

- Senior managers with specific responsibility for governance, including internal audit or risk management. The workshop provides guidance on good practice developments which you can use to develop further your own governance arrangements
- Heads of internal audit and their senior managers. The workshop will familiarise you with current good practice developments and assist you in providing assurance to senior management. It also covers risk management, both as a vital management process in its own right and as a key tool in internal audit planning to focus attention where it is most needed.

How you will benefit

The workshop is designed to allow you to:

- Discuss internal audit and risk management in the context of your organisation
- Share experience of good practice developments and practical lessons learned from their implementation in the UK and other countries
- Share your own experiences of managing and implementing risk management and internal audit
- Enable you to explore how these developments may be introduced and/or implemented in your own country.

"The workshop was interactive and added value to my profession. Interesting discussions with the Wales Audit Office and the internal auditor were the best."

Faith Waithira

Internal Auditor

Public Sector Accounting Standard Board, Kenya

What the workshop will cover

The workshop will involve discussion sessions and practical case study material, with a range of visits to key practitioners to examine the elements of good practice in these important and developing areas. It aims to be highly interactive and you are encouraged to: share your own experiences; debate the potential added value to your own situation from applying some of the features of models used in the UK; and consider skills and resources required to develop a framework for risk management and internal audit.

Workshop notes, presentations and a range of different materials will be provided on an Android tablet for you to use during the workshop and for future reference and follow up.
