About the workshop

This workshop has been designed to help public policy makers at all levels of government, as well as in national and international NGOs, make better decisions and achieve better outcomes by using analysis, evidence and evaluation effectively. The workshop has heightened relevance in light of the COVID-19 pandemic, which has demonstrated the delicate interplay between scientific evidence, expertise and judgement in responding to a rapidly changing situation. The pandemic has highlighted the important role of evidence gathering and analysis in policy making as well as its limits when the evidence is constantly emerging and uncertain.

The workshop provides a thorough overview of policy analysis and the use of evidence, taking an in-depth look at how to analyse policy and use research and evidence.

It has been designed to enhance policy making throughout different stages of the policy process (preparation and planning, decision-making and implementation) by placing the best available evidence from research and evaluation at the heart of decision making. It also considers how to integrate different types of evidence with other key factors that influence the policy process, including political direction, available resources and the experience and expertise of policy makers.

During the week, you will develop your understanding of:

- The policy making process
- Different types of evidence and the risks associated with them
- Problem identification and specification
- Stakeholder engagement
- Developing policy options and innovative solutions
- Theory of change analysis
- Establishing ‘what works’ using counterfactual analysis
- Evidence synthesis – harnessing existing evidence
- Business case development
- Developing implementation and delivery plans
- Influencing the policy process using evidence and analysis.

Who is it for?

The workshop is designed for policy makers and decision makers who plan, implement, manage and evaluate the impact of policies in public and private sector organisations, international organisations, NGOs, and local government departments and agencies. Whilst there is some technical content from various social, economic and political science disciplines, you do not need to have expertise in these areas.

How participants will benefit

The workshop will enable you to:

- Make better decisions about policies and services by using the best available evidence to form your judgements
- Make critical judgements about evidence from research and evaluation, and understand how these fit with other factors that influence and inform policy-making
- Mentor colleagues in evidence-based policy-making and in how to use research evidence effectively
- Procure and manage research and evaluation, and professional analytical services, effectively and efficiently
- Improve the accountability of policy-making and public services in your locality, region or country.

What the workshop will cover

- The policy making process
- Different types of evidence
- Problem identification and specification
- Stakeholder engagement
- Developing policy options and innovative solutions
- Theory of change analysis
- Establishing ‘what works’ using counterfactual analysis
- Evidence synthesis: harnessing existing evidence
- Business case development
- Developing implementation and delivery plans
- Influencing the policy process using evidence and analysis.

For the duration of the workshop you will work in groups to learn about the impact of real-life policies in areas such as education, social welfare, crime and justice and international development. The workshop has been designed to be flexible so that it can be adjusted wherever practicable to meet your particular requirements. You will be invited to give an informal presentation on the different stages of the policy process in your home country.

“The lecturer was very knowledgeable and an excellent communicator. It has greatly improved my knowledge of making effective policy.”

Workshop Director

The Workshop Director is Dr Philip Davies. Philip is Executive Director of Oxford Evidentia, a UK-based professional development and consulting company that undertakes capacity building in impact evaluation, evidence synthesis and the use of high-quality evidence for policy making, good governance and public service delivery. From 2012 to 2015 Philip was Head of the London office of 3ie, the International Initiative for Impact Evaluation, and had responsibilities for 3ie's Systematic Reviews and Research Synthesis programme. Previously, Philip was a Director of the American Institute for Research in Washington DC, and before this he was a senior civil servant in the UK Cabinet Office and HM Treasury, responsible for policy evaluation and analysis. Before joining the Cabinet Office Philip was a University Lecturer in Social and Political Science at the University of Oxford, and he has held academic positions at the University of Aberdeen and the University of California, San Diego. He has substantive expertise in health and health care, education, social welfare, crime and justice and international development. He has taught courses on policy evaluation, evidence-based policy making, and the analysis and use of evidence across the UK and in the USA, Canada, and various countries of Europe, Africa and Australasia. He is also a consultant on policy making for many governments and international organisations.

You can also complete our hard copy application form. Please contact us at pai@public-admin.co.uk to obtain a copy. Once completed return to Amanda Anderson, Programme Manager, at the same email address.

If you would like to discuss this workshop, any of our other international workshops or our consultancy services, please contact Claire Cameron, Director.

We also have extensive experience of designing tailor-made training (from one day to two or three weeks) which can be run in your own country or in the UK to meet the specific needs of groups or individuals at all levels within your organisation. Please contact us if you would like further information.

Language

The workshop is conducted in English. You will need to have a good working knowledge of the language.

Location and arrival arrangements

The workshop is based in central London. We can arrange travel to and from one of the London airports into central London if you let us have your flight details in good time. The cost of airport transfers is included in the workshop fee.

Fees

The fee for this workshop will be £2,340. The fee includes tuition, travel to and from the airport in London¹, presentation material and other documentation. It also includes an Android tablet for you to use during the workshop and take home with you for future reference and follow up as well as a light lunch and refreshments during each working day.

Other costs

Airfares and daily travel to and from the workshop venue are not included. Our workshops are non-residential and you are responsible for your accommodation costs. We can help you with booking hotel accommodation so please let us know if you would like us to advise you or make a reservation. We suggest that you should allow approximately £160 per day for a modest standard of hotel (for example, three-star), local travel in the UK, meals (apart from a light lunch on working days) and other incidental expenses.

Value Added Tax

We do not have to charge UK Value Added Tax (VAT) if you can provide written confirmation from your government or its accredited representative that you are "employed by the government in furtherance of its sovereign activities." In all other cases, we will have to charge VAT (currently 20%) in addition to the fee.

Ways to pay

You, or your government agency, can pay by bank transfer or by cheque, made payable to Public Administration International. We accept payment by credit or debit card but there is a surcharge for this way of paying. Please contact us if you would like to pay by credit or debit card.

Discounts

We offer a 10% reduction on the full tuition fee if we receive payment no later than 28 days before the first day of the workshop. If we receive payment after that, we will charge the full tuition fee.

Cancellation

If you have to cancel your booking, you must let us know in writing and we will acknowledge in writing your cancellation. For cancellations received up to 29 days before the start of the workshop we will refund the tuition fee, minus a charge of £200 to cover our administration costs. For cancellations received within 28 days of the start of the workshop, we will charge the full tuition fee. If you have paid the tuition fee and have subsequently been refused a visa to enter the UK, we will refund the tuition fee, minus a charge of £200 to cover our administration costs, providing you send us the original letter from the British High Commission/ Embassy confirming refusal of a visa and providing you have not entered the UK.

Substitutions and transfers

If you have booked a place on a workshop and are not able to attend, we will accept an appropriate substitute at any time without penalty but our normal terms and conditions will apply. Also, it is possible to transfer to a future workshop but only one transfer is permitted. Please get in touch with us and we will advise you about transfers.

Please see our website for our full terms and conditions. If you would prefer a hard copy of our full terms and conditions please let us know.
